Cost Control and Cost Savings

Managed Behavioral Healthcare

Not knowing where to turn, a mother checks her troubled adolescent into an Inpatient facility on a Friday afternoon. The doctors aren't in until Monday. After three days pass, could it be possible the adolescent only needed one day of Inpatient therapy? Was Outpatient therapy an option? Could these high costs have been avoided?

MINES and Associates is a proactive, elite, psychology firm. Pairing clinical expertise with outstanding customer service, MINES creates a unique Managed Behavioral Healthcare program that makes certain each client receives the level of care they need.

All Inpatient cases are managed and evaluated on a day-to-day basis, so that each day of hospitalization is indeed what the doctor prescribed. All care is coordinated so that each client receives the appropriate number of doctors and specialists.

Medical patients who may be aggravating their health concerns by an undiagnosed or untreated mental illness are outreached. MINES controls your healthcare costs by helping, for example, alcoholics and drug addicts with their addiction issues before they develop serious medical conditions.

If you receive quality care, cost savings will be a natural byproduct.

After all, that's why it's called Managed Care.
